PREPAREDNESS.

This preparedness talk comes from one of two sources: The wealthy shipbuilding and armaments companies or from a few over-excited persons who can only think in terms of war.

Secretary Garrison has shown that our navy is superior to that of Germany, while our coast defenses for our large cities are regarded ample.

Again the proposed Pan-American policy that is to unite all North and South America against European aggression has met with the hearty approval of the South American countries. That should strengthen us greatly. If we were safe from European aggression before the war, we certainly are now, with the added power of South America and the greatly reduced strength of all Europe as a result of this war.

It will take fifty years or longer for Europe to recover from the effects of the present struggle. In no time short of twenty years can they possibly provide men for another war.

To introduce into all the schools above the rural schools some system of semi-military training would add greatly to the general health and at the same time provide an adequate army for any emergency.

In connection with this let a broad national good roads policy be carried out and we will be able to move troops, big guns, munitions and rations quickly from one point to another and so strengthen us internally that no nation would think of landing an army, were it possible. Such roads would be of mutual benefit to the people and add to our strength as a nation more than any fleet of battleships could.

Let our shipbuilding and allied preparations for national defense go on at the same rate as in the past and devote the larger expenditure to good roads, for our roads are now so poor that a rapid concentration of men and equipment at any given point is impossible.

These things are plain to many people, but no one expects them to prevail because the great shipbuilding and munitions companies are united in their efforts for purely a money gain. The people are not united in their demands and desires and never will be.

It is very probable that such a costly war preparation will be launched that the good roads idea will be set back or retarded for years.

Don't refuse to help that poor fellow Christmas because he has not lived according to the Golden Rule; you have not done that yourself. Besides this is the time when all hard feelings should be laid aside.

Don't refuse to make some person happy with a gift because they have not been as industrious as they should have been; you have wasted much time yourself the past year. Besides the fellow may be needing some show of kindness worse than you are aware.

Don't lavish on your family what they really do not need, just because they happen to want it; give some of it to those less fortunate than yourself. That will make what you have and what you give more enjoyable.

Don't forget that there is far more joy in giving than in receiving, if your heart is right. If your heart is not right for giving, give anyway and that will help the heart to get right.

Don't forget there are plenty of people who are worse off than you and that you can spare something and not miss it.

Don't forget that a REAL Christmas

SAVES DAUGHTER

Advice of Mother no Doubt Prevents Daughter's Untimely End.

Ready, Ky.—"I was not able to do anything for nearly six months," writes Mrs. Laura Bratcher, of this place, "and was down in bed for three months."

I cannot tell you how I suffered with my head, and with nervousness and womanly troubles.

Our family doctor told my husband he could not do me any good, and he had to give it up. We tried another doctor, but he did not help me.

At last, my mother advised me to take Cardui, the woman's tonic. I thought it was no use for I was nearly dead and nothing seemed to do me any good. But I took eleven bottles, and now I am able to do all of my work and my own washing.

I think Cardui is the best medicine in the world. My weight has increased, and I look the picture of health."

If you suffer from any of the ailments peculiar to women, get a bottle of Cardui today. Delay is dangerous. We know it will help you, for it has helped so many thousands of other weak women in the past 50 years.

Write to: Chattanooga Medicine Co., Ladies' Advisory Dept., Chattanooga, Tenn., for Special Instructions on your case and 64-page book, "Home Treatment for Women," in plain wrapper. N. G. 129 is a giving Christmas; try to make yours a real one this year.

It is all right to go to church, sing and pray, but the loudest prayers and those that come nearest reaching the Great White Throne are the gift prayers that cost us the most self-denial. Try it and see if that is not true.

TWO GOLDEN DAYS.

There are two days of the week upon which and about which I never worry, two care-free days kept sacredly free from fear and apprehension.

One of these is Yesterday. Yesterday with all its cares and frets, with all its pains and aches, all its faults, its mistakes and blunders, has passed beyond the reach of my recall. I can not undo an act that I wrought. I can not unsay a word that I said on Yesterday.

All that it holds of life, of regret and sorrow, is in the hand of the Mighty Love that can bring sweet waters out of the bitterest desert—the love that can make the wrong things right, that can turn weeping into laughter, that can give beauty for ashes, the garment of praise for the spirit of heaviness, joy of the morning for the woe of night.

Save for the beautiful memories that linger, sweet and tender like the perfume of roses, in the heart of the day that is gone, I have nothing to do with Yesterday.

And the other day I do not worry about is Tomorrow. Tomorrow, with all its possible adversities, its burdens, its perils, its large promises and poor performance, its failures and mistakes, is as far beyond the reach of my mastery as its dead sister—Yesterday.

Its sun will rise in rosy dawn splendor, or beyond a mask of weeping clouds. But it will rise. Until then the same love and patience that held yesterday, and holds tomorrow, shines with tender promise into the heart of today. I have no possession in that unborn day of grace. All else is in the infinite keeping of that Infinite Love that holds for me the treasure of yesterday, the love that is higher than the stars, wider than the sky, deeper than the seas.

There is left for myself, then, but one day of the week—today. Any man can fight the battles of today. Any woman can carry the burdens of just one day.—Robert J. Burdette.

Eighty-one bootleggers were convicted in Nashville at the September term of court, fifty went to the rock pile, more than $6,000 in fines were assessed while bonds to the amount of $15,000 were forfeited.

This shows conclusively that the activity against whiskey has come to stay. It will grow in strength as time goes on and it will only be a short time until Tennessee will be in much the same condition as Kansas, as far as the bootlegger goes. In Kansas it has reached the point where bootlegging is confined to the low negro and his back alley associate. When he is apprehended he has no friends of influence and as a result he gets a "short shift." Speed the day when that may become the case in this state.

Wonder what "Ham" thinks of that "fly on his nose" now?

J. E. Patton.

Our mothers have told it to us, And now we are telling it again How Christ in a stable was born, And how on that wonderful morn, The shepherds who guarded their flocks, With amazement

Saw the glory of God, as around them it shone,

And heard the glad song Of the heavenly throng,

As it pealed in an anthem of praise, An anthem that comes through the years

To gladden us even to tears With its thrilling and rapturous tone;

And on, through the ages will flow, Till all the grand story shall know,

How Christ, though the Lord over all, Was a babe, with the beasts of the stall,

And the angels with joy hailed his birth, Price of Peace, bringing peace to the earth.

So the story that never grows old, Shall from one to another be told,

Still gaining in grandeur the while; And heard with most rapture and praise

In the day, yet to crown all the days, When the world shall rejoice in the smile

Of Him who was cradled in hay On the morn of the first Christmas day.

"GREEN BUG" APPEARS AGAIN.

Measures Recommended to Minimize Danger of Serious Outbreak in Coming Spring.

Washington, D. C.—The "green bug," otherwise known as the spring grain aphid, has made its appearance in Tennessee, Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas and New Mexico.

Farmers are urged by the United States Department of Agriculture to watch their fields carefully for spots where the pest is abundant and the wheat plants change to a red or yellow color. Such spots or areas should be immediately plowed under and rolled, or if straw is abundant, this should be spread over the spots and burned. The danger of a serious outbreak in the coming spring will depend upon weather conditions between this and April 1.

WAR UPON PAIN!

Pain is a visitor to every home and usually it comes quite unexpectedly. But you are prepared for every emergency if you keep a small bottle of Sloan's Liniment handy. It is the greatest pain killer ever discovered. Simply laid on the skin—no rubbing required—it drives the pain away. It is really wonderful.

Mervin H. Soister, Berkeley, Cal., writes: "Last Saturday, after tramping around the Panama Exposition with wet feet, I came home with my neck so stiff that I couldn't turn. I applied Sloan's Liniment freely and went to bed. To my surprise, next morning the stiffness had almost disappeared; four hours after the second application I was as good as new."

THE CHRIST STAR.

Pure, and clear, and strangely bright, Emblem of Infinite light, Shone the Star on that calm night, Time's swift pendulum swing on—Centuries have come and gone Since the Christ star's holy dawn.

Yet more effulgent still it seems As with myriad rays it gleams Through the portals of Hope's dreams.

May it shine around thy years, Stillings all thy doubts and fears Till the Christ again appears.

Monterey.

Dr. W. W. Wilhoite, who has been manager of the Cumberland Drug Company here for the past ten years, has sold his stock of drugs to Dr. R. L. Ray and left for Florida, where he will make his future home. Dr. Webb, formerly of Johnson City, will have charge of the prescription department in the future.

Thomas Wilcox, aged 70, died here Thursday after several months illness. He was born in Ohio, but had been in this country for a number of years. He was the father of George Wilcox, formerly of Johnson Stand.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Livingston, of Jamestown, spent several days here last week, visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Adams. Mr. Livingston was sheriff of Pentress county for a number of years and was about as fearless an officer as ever carried a subpoena or buckled on a "shooting iron."

Harris Copeland and Bill Looper, both of Crawford, were standing at the counter of the company store last Saturday quietly munching crackers and eating sardines out of the same can. They became involved in a heated quarrel and were ordered out of the building by one of the clerks. As soon as they were on the outside Looper, it is alleged, drew a gun and fired five shots at Copeland, but with no effect. Thereupon Copeland drew his gun and fired at Looper twice, each shot taking effect, inflicting wounds in the throat and abdomen. Looper was placed on a tram to be rushed to Nashville to undergo an operation, when he expired here at Monterey as he was being carried from the train. Copeland was arrested and placed in jail at Livingston. Both were men of families and both were under the influence of liquor, so it is alleged.

Bud Welch, a prosperous farmer living a few miles from town, was in town Saturday night and while under a somnambulist influence of some kind, wandered to the cinder pit on the railroad yards here and tumbled in, receiving a wound on the head that he underwent an operation for Monday in St. Raphael's Infirmary here. He was also badly burned in places on the body, but is reported as improving, both from the burns and operation.

Santa Claus was observed on the streets of Monterey about 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon. He made his appearance in an automobile and stopped here for a few moments in front of C. F. Borden's store, where he made a short speech to probably two hundred and fifty howling kiddies. After the speech the kiddies were taken into the store and each one presented with an orange. He promised to be back again in a few days.

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Circulars free. All Druggists, 75c.
